THE BABCOCK TRIAL.

St. Louis, Feb. 12.-The District Attorney, Douglas, on affidavit purporting to be charges preferred in 1873 by Lindsay Murdoch, a collector of the Internal Revenue in South-East Missouri, the charges were against A. J. Joyce and Jno. McDonald respectively, revenue agent and supervisor. The envelope was endorsed by C. C. Sullivan, the President's private Secretary, showing that it had been received at the Executive Mansion, and referred to the Treasury Department.

Another endorsement showed the reference to the Commissioner of the Internal Revenue. Mr. Douglas could not testify that he had seen an affidavit in his office. The District Attorney said he proposed to read the affidavit, showing that in 1873 charges were made against Joyce and McDonald, had been sent to the Executive Mansion, and had gone through the Departments. The court only allowed the witness to testify that the endorsement showed that such charges had been received and filed. They were not read. Nearly the entire morning session was taken up in trying to trace through the various departments of this city and Washington, and also by the doorkeeper and messengers of the Executive Mansion, certain telegrams not yet admitted to prove that they were received and sent back and forth between Joyce and McDonald here, and Gen'l. Babcock in Washington. Finally the defense waived this proof and the following admitted to be Gen'l. Babcock's hand-writing to be read:

WASHINGTON, D. C. Dec. 13, '74. Gen'l. Jno. McDonald, St. Louis, Mo. I succeeded. They will not go. I will write you. (Signed.) SYLVIA. Before this was read Judge Porter announced that they proposed to make a lengthy legal argument against the admission of the other telegrams and perhaps they might wish to include this Sylvia's dispatch in their objections. The defense wished to reserve that point.

As remarkable an instance of rapid pictorial illustration as American art has ever produced has been afforded yesterday by the Graphic. The great Broadway fire was raging till late into the previous night. Before noon yesterday the Graphic was on the street with full page of spirited pictures of the scene. -N. Y. Tribune, Feb. 10.

The Woodhull in Georgia. That poisonous leper, Victoria Woodhull, is now down in Georgia, on what is politely called a lecturing tour. She is billed for Macon this evening and on Tuesday next the entire day passed without the sale of a single ticket, a fact which speaks volumes for the good sense of the people of that city. She is called (in the advertisement) "the beautiful, talented and accomplished Queen of the Rostrum." The Telegraph and Messenger says:

It was announced that the sale of seats to the Woodhull performance would begin at Brown & Co's book-store yesterday; but there was no sale. Such a thing has never before occurred in the history of Macon. The poorest shaves have hitherto been able to sell at least a few reserved seats. -Wilmington Review.

Mlle. de Reszke is the rising star in the lyric sky of Europe. She is a Polish lady, and her pen-portrait is thus drawn by a Parisian admirer: "Mlle. de Reszke is just nature; she is tall and graceful, with the loveliest arms and shoulders imaginable; her features are mobile and pliant, her eyes are large and dark, while her profuse tresses, or at least their stage presentation, are of a golden blonde hue. Her voice is a clear, powerful, resonant soprano."

NORTH CAROLINA.

The money gave out. Asheville Pioneer. Laura Garron, who sloped with Millard Yarborough on the evening of the 25th ult., has returned to the home of her father. She states that he left her at a farm house a few miles from town, after informing her that he did not have money enough to carry them to their destination, or to support her after marriage.

The Durham Hotel, Hillsboro Recorder. We were informed as to the landlord of the Durham Hotel. We are sorry to hear that the most excellent landlord of the Orange House Mr. L. L. Hassell is the landlord of the Durham Hotel on the first of March. His house here we regret to say has not been patronized as it ought to have been. His table has always been most excellent, and the wine and food of fine quality. He is a most agreeable and one whose service is acceptable to the public.

Suspended by the neck. Asheville Citizen. Mr. G. M. Masten, who is at work on the Weaverly Woolen Factory, was suspended by the neck from the top of the first joist, and struck across the second. Some rafters which tumbled with him, caught him and held him by the neck, and he remained, until a little boy ran, and giving the timber a turn let him drop to the ground. Two ribs were broken, but the careful and prompt treatment by Dr. Reagan soon brought him around all right. He is now at work, and laughs at his fall.

Caswell county's Sheriff. Milton Chronicle. On Saturday last Sheriff Griffith, of this county, accompanied by Mr. N. P. Oliver, of Yanceyville, went over into Halifax, Va., to arrest Leven Brandon and son, on a requisition from the Governor. Arriving at their domicile Leven Brandon, a gun at the Sheriff, who, nothing daunted, walked up to him and wrenched the gun out of his hand threw it aside; in the scuffle the Sheriff slipped out of his grasp, (in consequence of having on heavy gloves,) and made his escape, bareheaded, barefooted and coatless. During the Sheriff's scuffle with the father, Oliver laughed with the son (a stout buck), who resisted, when Oliver drew a pistol to shoot him, but the darkey managed to knock it out of his hand with a shovel. Oliver now closed his eyes and wrenched the shovel out of his hand dealt him a few blows that quieted him, and they marched him off to Yanceyville jail. These negroes are charged with robbing Wm. Long's factory of tobacco.

National Antipathies. A party of sailors from an American man-of-war, lying in a Mediterranean port, about thirty years ago, engaged in a row of vulgar brawls so dear to every seaman's heart. Their enemies were an equal number of foreign sailors - French, Spanish, or Italian, I now forget which, though the story came to me direct, one remove from the American Commander. The offenders were called up for explanation, and stood before the officer, a row of bull-dogs, bawling, snarling, and bristling at their hearts content. There was no evidence of a guilty conscience, however, among the whole lot. They all felt that the whole lot of the enemy party in his own person as he asked: "We wouldn't help it, yer honor; it wasn't our fault. We was sittin' there peaceful as kittens. And them fornic' chaps come in - what do themselves sailors - and the lubbers had their jackets buttoned inside of the seat of their trousers! A look of scorn told the rest of the story. One of them said: 'The lubbers had a hairy retreat and Jack escaped his punishment. Any English or American citizen who harbors a feeling of international aversion will do well to examine the conduct of the enemy party in his own person as he asked: "We wouldn't help it, yer honor; it wasn't our fault.
